Low angle metal roofs have heavy, thick slabs of snow that built up during persistent cold temperatures. These slabs will slide during warm temperatures. Be on the lookout for overhead hazard and be cautious where you walk or park your car during warm sunny days. An additional urban hazard are large icicles are that will break during warm days. Photo: A. Schauer

Advisory Region
Out of Advisory Area

Forecast link: GNFAC Avalanche Forecast for Mon Mar 18, 2019
Out of Advisory Area, 2019-03-17