

Avalanche

Date

Sat, 02/10/2024 - 14:30

Activity

Skiing

Witnessed a natural slide/sluff today day off the top of 1/4 Saddle around 3:30 pm from the Bitterend. Visibility was poor could not see the starting point. The slide produced a large dust cloud running down the right side of the Football field, which would could have taken a person for a ride. The slide ran over the cliffs skiers left of Lundy's Luge. The debris covered all the tracks the from the high traverse across the Cueball. Probably would not have buried a person, but certainly would have rocked your world. Strong winds on the ridge were loading lee slopes, forming wind slabs right off the ridge line. Would expect more natural activity tonight, and human triggered tomorrow if someone wants to poke the bear.

Region

Bridger Range

Location (from list)

Saddle Peak

Observer Name

Bryon